DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's amendment filed 09 November 2005 has overcome the restriction requirement.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. The indicated allowability of claims 3-6 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to Ward, 3,874,122. Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
5. Claim 4 recites the limitation "said first and second hydraulic cylinders" and "said first and second racks". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Claim 5 recites the limitation "said rack". It is not clear which rack is being claimed. Claim 6 recites the limitation "said drive shaft". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3723

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1, 3, 4, as best understood, 5, 6, 10 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Davis 4,471,678 in view of Ward, 3,874,122. '678 discloses a saw for cutting a tube, where the orbital motion is caused by a rotary motor shaft connected to a crank arm to orbit the tool and cut the tube. '678 does not disclose that the means for driving the tool includes first and second hydraulic cylinders, a pinion, first and second racks, hydraulic power means for selectively applying hydraulic fluid to the cylinders to cause linear translation of the racks in opposite directions, means for varying the power level of the hydraulic power means during translation of the rack, or where the total linear displacement of the first rack is at least approximately equal to one revolution of the pinion. It is noted that the racks, pinion and cylinders do not cause the tool to move about an orbital path. The rack, pinion and cylinders convert linear motion to rotary motion that in turn rotates a cam that causes the tool to move about an orbital path. Ward, '122, in a mechanical device, teaches that it is old and well known to provide a pinion between two racks, each rack linearly translated by a hydraulic piston, to convert linear motion to rotary motion, to move a structure about an arced path. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have provided '678 with the linear-to-rotary drive means taught by '122, figure 2, and column 2, lines 39-53, providing a compact actuator that provides accurate movement of the rotary shaft.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 10 and 11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
9. As the new reference was discovered after the indication that claims 2-6 would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims, causing the allowability of claims 3-6 to be withdrawn, this action is made non-final to give applicant fair opportunity to respond to the new rejection.
10. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to M Rachuba whose telephone number is 571-272-4493. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Fridays.
